KILLED ON THE RAIL.

An Unknown Man Found on the Track at Eger.

Yesterday morning a steam came to the city from the agent at Eger, bringing the body of an unknown man found upon the track about five miles north of Colorado Springs and had been removed to the station at Eger. The body was found on the track about five miles north of Colorado Springs and had been removed to the station at Eger. The body was found on the track about five miles north of Colorado Springs and had been removed to the station at Eger.

Testimony was taken from the coroner's jury, who happened to be on duty at the time. Coroner Davis at once procured a team and proceeded to Eger and procured the body. He could find no one there who knew anything about the man or how the accident had happened. Beyond the fact that the engineer on the north-bound Rio Grande express passing here at 5:25 yesterday morning found the body lying on bridge No. 69 about five miles north of Colorado Springs.

Mr. Davis visited the scene of the accident yesterday afternoon. He was accompanied by a coroner's jury, composed of Thomas Gowan, Dr. S. J. Baker, J. J. Saxon, A. A. Erick, William Early and J. W. Robbins. The jury viewed the body in the condition that it was in when taken from the track. It was in a very bad condition, the car wheels having passed diagonally across the hips, probably not causing instant death, but the man even lay back to death.

The jury viewed the body in the condition that it was in when taken from the track. It was in a very bad condition, the car wheels having passed diagonally across the hips, probably not causing instant death, but the man even lay back to death. The jury viewed the body in the condition that it was in when taken from the track.

After deliberating for a short time the jury returned the following verdict: SEVERE CASE OF THE RAIL. The body of an unknown man found upon the track about five miles north of Colorado Springs and had been removed to the station at Eger. The body was found on the track about five miles north of Colorado Springs and had been removed to the station at Eger.

From the little information obtained it is hard to tell who the man is or exactly how he came to his death, but it is presumed that it was accidental. The finding of the coroner in his pocket indicates that he must have come from Denver and that he either fell from a train or was walking on the track when he fell. The body was found on the track about five miles north of Colorado Springs and had been removed to the station at Eger.

Mr. Rhea at the Opera House last night. The Gazette has frequently published criticisms of dramatic entertainments from other papers that have raised expectations far beyond what was realized when the companies appeared. It is pleasant for us to say that no reasonable expectations, which is very flattering notice of them, we have published have excited, have been disappointed. The "School for Scandal" was as usual presented as any play that has ever been given in the opera house. The play requires a very even company as it was not written for the modern stage. It did not give the opportunity to show the actor's powers that the play of tonight will give. But it showed the quality of the dramatic talents, and demonstrated that they had not been too highly praised. But nothing to-night will surpass the scene between Lady Teazle and her husband in the second act. Her humor, her vivacity, and her passion were remarkable exhibition of her art power.

There should be a good audience tonight. This is the best opportunity we have had to see really good acting this season and one that we will not soon have again. The play is "Academie Ecouvreur." It is the one in which the first actress, in a country and which her reputation as an actress among the stage-going people is most immediately associated.

C. C. W. Fisher of the Denver & New Orleans was in the city yesterday. Mr. A. J. Craig, an old-time merchant of Colorado Springs, now of Pueblo, was in the city yesterday.

Arthur Smith is a large lynx about five miles north of the city yesterday. It is a splendid specimen.

Mr. M. S. Wells of the Denver Journal of Commerce was in the city yesterday in the interest of a paper.

Theresa and her company came up from Pueblo yesterday noon on the lumberer. The most of them registered at the Anderson.

Mr. E. A. visited the Garden of the Gods and Manitou yesterday afternoon. She was accompanied by a coroner's jury, composed of Thomas Gowan, Dr. S. J. Baker, J. J. Saxon, A. A. Erick, William Early and J. W. Robbins.

Carden's are at present engaged in rearranging the county clerk's and treasurer's room for the use of Judge Co. A new floor is being put in and other material changes made.

Mr. L. J. Day of Barry and Day, who appeared in the opera house about a year ago in "The Good Girl," is at Manitou, where he is engaged during the summer for the benefit of the opera house.

It is understood that an effort will be made by the Grand Army of the Republic to have the city council appropriate $500 towards defraying the expenses of the encampment in this city in September.

Mr. Graham O'Connell has returned to Colorado Springs after an absence of several months on the Pacific slope. While there he was engaged in the country he prefers Colorado as a place of residence.

We understand that at the meeting of the board of trustees of the Dear Museum, held at Denver on Thursday, it was determined to re-engage Prof. J. A. Smith and the present corps of teachers for next season.

There is material in the city for one good case of the rail. The body of an unknown man found upon the track about five miles north of Colorado Springs and had been removed to the station at Eger. Swatow, Me. & Co., under date of June 20th, say: "The market for wool generally remains quiet, receipts no longer accumulating sufficiently to warrant manufacturers entering the market to any free, but the next few weeks will probably show a check change. Prices are nominal and the same as about as low as at cotton-wool period in 1876. Auction sale of wools in New York the past week showed a disposition on part of buyers to take more, the light, medium and so-called being sold in one lot and forty-seven in all, clearing goods going at about 10 per cent. on the basis of prices previously asked. Carpet wools have moved freely without any change in values. The following prices are given:

Choice clip, graded, medium, 14 to 15 1/2; Improved, 14 to 15 1/2; Light, improved, 14 to 15 1/2; Average grades, 14 to 15 1/2; Heavy, 14 to 15 1/2; Coarse (carpet stock), 14 to 15 1/2; Black, 14 to 15 1/2.

MALE REGA.

A Notice about the Opera House.

On Friday night the "School for Scandal" was charmingly presented by the excellent manner and versatile acting, but as the scene was acted by her superb interpretation of Academie Ecouvreur. Dramatic criticism is not a way of discriminating and perhaps it is just as well to point out that a particular entertainment was better than any before given in the opera house. The scene between Lady Teazle and her husband in the second act. Her humor, her vivacity, and her passion were remarkable exhibition of her art power.

The support was excellent and cannot be too highly commended. "Star" companies that come here usually have only one actor or actress so that the sticks that make up the support are drawn from the pleasure that the acting of the "Star" may give. But such companies cannot have the "School for Scandal" as a factor because no one part is prominent enough to receive the average poor playing. Arthur E. was as Charles Fairbank, Robert G. Wilson as Sir Peter Teazle, George Woodworth as Sir Oliver and Mrs. Wren as Mrs. Candour. Several special men on the play side of the audience and the most careful scrutiny of the play as a whole was thoroughly enjoyed and appreciated. The selection of the comedies, not simply because of the interest they presented, but because of the fact that they are good plays. They are a good deal of after a season of French drama, etc.
